Obstetrics and Gynaecology Unaccredited Trainee - Tamworth Rural Referral Hospital

- Over 1,200 births per year
- You will receive the hands-on experience you are looking for!
- Supporting 5 O&G Surgeons with another 4FTE Unaccredited Trainees and 2FTE Junior Medical Officers

Where you'll be working

With 348 treatment spaces, we are the major Rural Referral Hospital to the North West of NSW. We conduct over 9000 surgical procedures per annum over 5 theatre spaces; with the new facility boasting an additional 3 theatre rooms which have been built for future growth.

Tamworth boasts a population of 60,000 meaning you will be living a rural lifestyle, in a very liveable inland city halfway between Sydney and Brisbane, and weekends at the coast are within easy reach. Tamworth is a thriving regional city where you will experience the best of both worlds with 6 daily return flights to the closest major capital cities with the knowledge you are living and raising your family under the most ideal circumstances; big wide open spaces, a welcoming and friendly community, affordable housing, great schools, and endless opportunities for you and your family to pursue past-time passions.

What you'll be doing

The primary purpose of the Unaccredited Trainee (UT) in Obstetrics and Gynaecology is to provide clinical care, under appropriate supervision, to women requiring planned and emergency medical services in a complex clinical environment. This position will provide experience in a critical care environment and have responsibilities and opportunities for autonomous practice commensurate with the level of experience of the medical officer.

Uniquely, you will find this position will offer you more hands-on supervised clinic and theatre time than your metropolitan colleagues. You will be supporting 5 x O&G Surgeons with another 5 x Unaccredited Trainees and 2 x Junior Medical Officers.

You will provide effective obstetric and gynaecological services to women under supervision, while developing expertise in managing these women in a complex clinical environment.

What we can provide to you

We offer you a broad scope of obstetrics and gynaecology practice; the O&G Service at Tamworth Rural Referral Hospital encourages collaboration and collegiate relationships across multi-disciplinary teams ensuring the best service delivery.

You will be involved in antenatal and gynaecology clinics, ward duties, caesarean section, and gynaecological lists.

We can provide you the professional skills to put you on the path of progressing to Accredited Obstetrics and Gynaecology Training if you are interested in this pathway.

International Applicants:

We welcome your application as an International Medical Graduates (IMG). Our district has a variety of programs and support to help you achieve general registration.

We will assist with a JMO supervised Practice Plan aimed at International Medical Graduates looking to transition into the Australian Healthcare System and an amazingly supportive JMO Team.

Our District also offers an exceptional Hospital Skills Program and Work Based Assessment Program.
