

Expression of Interest John Hunter Hospital (JHH) Consumer Representative

The John Hunter Hospital (JHH) is seeking healthcare consumers to help us improve the work performed at our hospital.

About the role

A consumer representative is someone who provides advice on behalf of consumers, with the aim of improving healthcare.

This is a volunteer role, and includes:

- Promoting the interests of consumers
- Presenting how consumers may feel and think about certain issues
- Work with hospital committees, ensuring the committee recognises consumer concerns.
- Help us best meet the needs of the community by working with us in the planning, delivery and evaluation of healthcare services

About you

We welcome expressions of interests from people who:

- Have experience of our hospital services, but are not a current employee of NSW Health
- Have a keen interest in improving consumer partnership in our health system
- Are reliable and responsible and willing to commit time to attend scheduled meetings
- Will sign and maintain a confidentiality agreement and complete a National Police Check (if required)

A consumer is someone that is a current or potential user of our health service. This includes young people, people living with a disability, people from diverse cultural and religious backgrounds, people who do not speak English as a first language, people with varied sexual orientation, genders and gender identities and with a range of health and illness conditions

Our commitment

- Orientation to the JHH and to the work of any committees
- Mentoring support
- Opportunities for training and development
- Payment of costs such as parking
